A SAMPLE CASE.

According to Mr. NATHANIEL BOOK McKay, the wages of street-car conductors and drivers in this country are higher than in England, "all on account of the tariff."

How is it, then, that these workers in Chicago are now striking for better pay? How is it that the tariff does not protect them from the car-loads of substitutes, many of them, no doubt, recent immigrants, which the great monopoly that owns the Chicago street railways is now hurrying across the country to "kill the strike?" And how is it that labor everywhere and in all occupations finds organization and mutual help its best and only protection?

SENSIBLE PRIZES.

A sensible matron has offered as prizes at the Cold Spring (L. L.) fair five silver medals to girls not over seventeen years old for "the best raised biscuits, the best tea biscuits, the best apple pie, the best bread and the best This is the right kind of competition to encourage. A "beauty show" stimulates vanity and begets impertinent curiosity. Besides, beauty is something that girls do not themselves achieve. They are born to be beautiful, and the "fatal gift" is no especial credit to them. It is likewise "only skin deep," and is a passing show.

But good cookery is an art. It is one of the bases of good health, of good temper, of home happiness and even of beauty.

Every girl should know how to cook.

THE ROLL OF MERIT.

THE EVENING WORLD'S "Roll of Merit," containing the names of the scholars in the primary schools who have received the highest marks during the week for punctuality. deportment and excellence in studies, has proved of great help to the schools and of much interest to parents and pupils.

If the publication stimulated the little folks to their harm we should not make it. But punctuality and good behavior are virtues to which all may aspire without injury and with excellent results. They are fundamental in the formation of correct habits of The County General Committee of the United life, and their attainment contributes much Labor party met last night in Clarendon Hall, and to success in any career.

Excellence in recitations is likewise to be encouraged, especially as the school life of a large majority of the pupils must be brief, and they should make the most of it.

The Tammany local ticket is made up of honest and capable men. HUGH GRANT has been tried in public office and not found wanting. Senator REILLY is especially popular with the workingmen, whose cause he so successfully championed at Albany. Now it is the "County's" play, and after them the Republicans will take their turn. The people of New York are to have a wide choice in their local officers.

Col. FRANK BURR did not find the workingmen frightened by the tariff scare in his tour through the State. He says they naturally argue that if their employers resist tariff reform as tending to lower wages, there must be an African in the wood-pile, as they reduce wages whenever they can.

Nine million dollars for land for new parks seems a good round sum, but if they are so located and constructed as to be health and pleasure grounds for the mass of people, instead of mere show places for the rich, the money will be well expended.

MATT. QUAY will use none of the Republican campaign funds to buy medicine to cure Mr. BLAINE'S loss of voice. The cold is better than a muzzle, because folly may slip through the latter.

About the siltiest campaign argument is a bet. It proves nothing except a fool's will ingness to part with his money.

THE SWEATER

He Makes the Working of Light Feathers a Heavy Task.

Poor Girls Broken Down by Long Hours of Labor.

A Once Pleasant and Profitable Industry Reduced to a Grind.

There is still another branch of the sweating system carried on in this big city to an alarming extent, and it is grinding and sapping the life-blood out of thousands of young girls and young women and a good many older ones.

It is carried on in the manufacture of faucy feathers and artificial flowers in the shops and at the tenement-house homes of myriads of poor toilers who work like slaves to earn paltry pittances, some finding it not enough to keep body and soul together, and others adding it as a mite to the support of families or dependent ones.

The fancy feather industry used to be a prosperous one for the workers, but grasping money-sweaters who control the trade and a falling off in the demand because of the freaks of fashion have caused a great reduction in wages, until at the present time they are down to a very low average—not more than $5 for sixty or seventy hours' work in a week; and now the manager of the leading concern in the business has ordered and is enforcing a reduction of from 15 to 25 per cent. in all its departments, which will bring the average wages down to $3.75 a week.

This sweeping reduction in the wages of workers who have spent years at the trade, until they have become experts, and who, a few years ago earned and received good wages, naturally caused astonishment and indignation among several hundreds of employees, many of whom went out on strike, while the others would have gone but for the fear of starvation and dire improverishment, which would fall not alone upon themselves but upon those dependent on them for support.

One young woman, with the tears welling up in her eyes, said that she had an aged mother dependent on her, and it was only by practising the most rigid economy and abstemiousness that they were enabled to buy the very plannest of food and pay rent for two little rooms in a downtown tenement.

At the reduction of 25 per cent, declared in the department where this young woman is employed, she said poverty stared her and her mother in the face; but she would be compelled to accept the reduction unless she was fortunate enough to find more remunerative employment, and not being skilled in any other work, she has no hope of bettering her condition. er condition.
The course of the big concern referred to.

The course of the big concern referred to, if continued, will cause quite a large number of firms to order similar reductions in the wages of their employees: for these firms cannot compete with the large establishment where the strike is now in progress unless they act accordingly.

There is the sweater element again.

General depression in trade of all kinds is given as the cause for this concern's action, and not the falling off in the fashion of wearing fancy flowers. Better times are hoped ing fancy flowers. Better times are hoped for, says the manager of the establishment. The cause of the poor girls and women who have thus been subjected to a reduction of wages to a starvation figure has been espoused by the Workingwomen's Society, and many of the leading ladies of the city have ascertained the facts in the matter, and, inding the cause a just one, they will render all the sid in their power.

Mr. Joseph Loewenstein, a leading manufacturer of fancy feathers, has assured members of the Workingwomen's Society that the Dodge was in London in August last, and with a companion went to the Queen's Music Hall, near Whitechapel. While they were there a Malay sailor came in in a terrible passion, and said he had been robbed of a watch and money by a Whitechapel girl whom he fell in with.

He was in a frenzy of rage and swore a terrible oath that if he did not find his property he would cut up every common woman in state of the trade does not warrant such a re-duction as that reported, but unless it is re-sisted successfully every manufacturer will have to reduce wages to meet the competi-tion thus forced by the sweaters of the trade. In the artificial flower trade, The Evening Would has given specific facts and figures to show how low wages are and how the swenter applies the lash to his overworked and underrible oath that if he did not find his property he would cut up every common woman in Whitechanel. He showed a murderous knife or creese and went out in search of the woman. The Malay was about 5 feet 8 inches in height, with high cheekbones, small black mustache and straight black hair.

Mr. Dedge has notified the British Consul of these facts and the location of the house in which the Malay was seen.

Marriage Is a Lettery. To the Editor of The Evening World:

Ralph Delmore has been engaged to appear in "Mr. Barnes of New York," at the Broad-way Theatre. The whole system of marriage is simply lottery of the worse, at best description. From my observations of married people—"the true inwardness" of whose domestic life would not benefit the coming generations to would not benefit the coming generations to know in full—marriage is made something more of a failure by the faults of the husband than by the general failings or deficiencies of the wife. One man wholly and chastely for one wife will make married life a success and never a failure.

A Young Lady's Say. To the Editor of The Evening World: I suppose a young lady may have her say about marriage being a failure or a success. Although a husband's and a wife's ideas may not at first harmonize on all subjects, yet if they are patient with each other they will after a time be able to anticipate each other's wants and to harmonize in all things. and if both would strive to see what they could do for each other's happiness, then there would be no reason to say that maris a failure, but truly a success. "Competition is the life of trade," and if you have not seen our improved $3 Shee, made for the Summer and Vall Trade of 1888s, you cannot imagine how lively trade is, or how hard our competitors have to work to keep within sight of us.

Ask your retailer for the James Means $3 Shoe, or the James Means $4 Shoe, according to your needs.

Positively none genuine unless having our name and price stamped plainly on the solest. Your retailer will supply you with shoes so stamped if you insist upon his doing so; if you do not insist, some retailers will coar you into buying inferior shoes upon which they make a larger profit.
